

The Institute of Ismaili Studies

Summer Programme on Islam 2005

What

A residential programme on Islam with international faculty and participants

When

13th - 21st August 2005

Where

Lucy Cavendish College
University of Cambridge, United Kingdom

Who

Post-graduate students, professionals and people in business, with at least a first degree or equivalent, and a good command of English

Aims

1. To provide a social, cultural and civilisational introduction to Islam.
2. To situate the Ismaili tariqah within the larger context of the intellectual and historical development of Islam.
3. To raise questions, stimulate reflection, and encourage discussion on important contemporary issues and themes in Islam and its Ismaili tariqah.

“For me the best part of the Summer Programme was the opportunity to challenge myself intellectually and to continue the search. I also really enjoyed meeting the other participants. The bonds formed here will be a lifelong memory.”
